DEMAND SMOOT BE SENT HOME

Epworth League Says He Is Unworthy.

His Relation Too Close With Treason-Working System.

Urge Congress to Submit Constitutional Amendment Prohibiting Polygamy.

DENVER, Colo., July 9.- The seventh international convention of the Epworth league closed touight with meetings in the down-town churches and auditoriums at which was read the report of the committee on resolutions, previously adopted by the board of control, the governing body of the league. The report refers to the Smoot case as follows:

Protest Against Smoot.

'Inasmuch as Reed Smoot, Senator of the United States from the State of Utah, is subservient to authority that is an tagonistic to the purity and integrity of the American home and subversive of the laws of the land, by reason of his official relation to the Mormon hierarchy, we earnestly and solemnly protest against his admission to a seat in the supreme legislative body of the nation. supreme legislative body of the nation, and we urge upon Congress the need of passing laws making it an impossibility for representatives of such a treason-working system to obtain seats in the legislative body of the United States.

And we urge the Congress of the United States to submit to the people a constitutional amendment prohibiting polygamy or plural marriages within the territory of the United States."

Favor Sundry Paforms

Favor Sundry Reforms.

The report favors a uniform divorce law; heartily commends the work of the National Bureau of Reform, the Lord's-day alliance of Canada, and similar organizations; pledges incessant warfare against all forms of intemperance and expresses gratification at the progress of the work of the Anti-Saloon league of the United States and Canada; declares uncompromising opposition to the sale of intoxicants in the army canteen, and indoress the Hepburn-Dolliver bill for the prevention of interstate transportation of intoxicants in violation of prohibitory laws.

laws.

The resolutions express sympathy for Bishop Joyce of St. Paul, whose illness prevented his attendance at the conven-

Services in the Churches.

During the day divine services were held in nearly all the churches of Denver, the sermons being preached by the visiting Methodist ministers.

Tomorrow the delegates will take side trips into the mountains and on Tuesday they are to be the guests of the Colorado Springs league for a plente in Cheyenne canyon. On Wednesday the leaguers will begin leaving the State, numbers going to Yellowstone park and the Portland exposition.

Division of the Sexes.

If the Mormon, tenet which sustains polygamy were dependent on the census statistics for its support it would be forever overthrown. A report sent out from the census bureau on the proportion of the sexes in the United States shows that in the continental portion of our country there are 1,633,221 more males than females. This means there must perforce be about there are 1.638.21 more males than females. This means there must perforce be about two bachelors in every 599 people, glving one man only one wife, and if polygamy were generally practiced and each elder in the church, as has been the practice with the Mormons, insisted on having halt a dozen or more wives, the surplus of bachelors would be larger.

From the same bulletin we learn that probably in the population of the world as a whole, and certainly in that half of it which has been counted with distinction of sex, there are several millions more males than females. Our own country is peculiarly masculine in population, the excess of males being greater here than elsewhere. This is readily accounted for by the fact that among the large number of immigrants who come to us from foreign immigrants who come to us from foreign lends the men cutnumber the women. This also explains why in Europe there is an excess of females, while on every other continent, so far as is known, the males are in the majority.

There are some interesting facts an excess of females, while on every other continent, so far as is known, the males are in the majority.

There are some interesting facts inought out by this report. During the seventy years from 1820 to 1890 the absolute excess of males was greater at each census than at any preceding census, with one exception, that of 1870, when the excess of males was less than in either of the two preceding decades. This, of course, was on account of the large number of men who lost their lives in the Civil war. The reduction of the excess of males between 1860 and 1870 was about 200,000.

But while the males are in the majority ever the entire country, the same proportion is not found in all sections. The emallest proportions of males are in the District of Columbia, 47.4 per cent; Massachusetts, 48.7 per cent, and Rhode Island, 19 per cent. Those with the largest percent, and Montana, 61.6 per cent. This, of course, is easily accounted for by the fact that more men than women go West. But between 1890 and 1800 the divergence between the sections in this respect was visibly decreased. In 1890 about one-fourth of the countles in the various States of the Union had an excess female population, and in 1900 this excess had fallen to less than one-sixth, while those counties having a large excess of males became fewer. It is a peculiar fact that, although the male population is the greater the country over, American cities, as a rule, have an excess of females. This is peculiarly true of cities in the older States, and the explanation is difficult, since apparently more boys than girls leave the farms to seek ity life. This tendency to an excess of female population in the cities is incréasing. The increase from 1800 to 1900 was in the ratio of 19 to 23.

The same dissociation of the sexes between city and country life is noted in the leading countries of western Europe, while in Russia and India It is not true, and in Hongkong and Manila there is a large excess of males. This seems to argue that the modern manner of life in civilized communities causes a falling of in male population. In the cities of west-ern Europe and America the birth rate is also lower than in contiguous rural re-gions or less advanced countries.—Nash-tille Banner.

Used to It.

A minister in a Kansas town tells this on himself: Owing to rheumatism in the winter he sometimes is troubled in walking; especially is this so in sleety weather. One day he stopped at the bottom of his front door step and asked a passing boy to help him up the steps. The boy did so and was about to run away when the minister thanked him very cordially, remarking how much he had helped him. "Oh, don't mention it," said the boy, "I'm used to it; my father comes home that way very often. Sometimes every night for a while."—Kansas City Journal.

What Naval Officers Have in View Would Make Uncle Sam the Terror of World Powers.

WASHINGTON, July 9-Naval officers ere figuring upon a naval programme which will place the United States in a position to play a leading role in the vorid-power drama in the not far distant future: According to the best authority here, the United States will need a navy three times the size of that now in commission and authorized in order to maintain its position as a dominating world power. In other words, the United States will need a fleet of between seventy-five and eighty battleships, seventy-five or eighty cruisers, armored and protected, and a orpedo and mosquito fleet of like propor-

Concentrate in Caribbean.

Those naval authorities feel that the United States must concentrate its greatest naval power in the Caribbean sea. For hat station it will require thirty-five bat-leships, with a proportional supporting lest, in order to make the position of the United States secure beyond peradven-

Ture. With such a force the West Indies and the Panama canal could be held against all comers, and the United States would be in position to dominate both North and America

South America.

A less powerful fleet would answer in the North Atlantic. Naval experts consider sixteen battleships, with a supporting fleet about the correct force to make our northern seaports secure. The Caribbean fleet could be shifted north in emergencies, or the Atlantic squadren might reinforce the Caribbean fleet.

Pacific Needs Strong Fleet.

On the Pacific the coast must be pretty On the Facilic the coast must be pretty strongly held. A fleet for this purpose should equal the fleet in the North At-lantic. It would cruise out to the Ha-walian islands, where the Government will some day have a fortified naval sta-tion, and make it difficult for any fleet coming across the Pacific to attack our Pacific coast.

Pacific coast.

Our weak point in the Pacific, it is said. Our weak point in the Pacific, it is sain, is the Philippine islands, and at this point we must have still another big fleet About sixteen battleships, with supporting vessels, is the size indicated. Such a fleet could put up an argument with any Pacific fleet afloat, until the coast fleet could get within striking distance.

Control Any Situation.

With the seas in every direction loaded down with our warships, it is thought by naval men the United States would be in-position to control any situation and dom-mate any world policy it may think neces-sary to influence.

sarv to influence.

Such a programme has some obstacles. It would involve the expenditure of an additional $80,000,000 or so in construction and arming of vessels. By spending $80,000,000 a year in construction such a fleet could be developed in ten years, after three or four years spent in preparing additional plants for the work. Should the people be willing to spend but $40,000,000 a year in new construction the programme would take about twenty-five years to bring to a conclusion.

Williams for Maintenance.

Millions for Maintenance.

After such a fleet was in commission it would cost about $250,000,000 a year for maintenance, or something more than the present cost of the army and navy combined. We would be obliged to spend two and one-half or three billions of dollars each decade.

It would entail the training of at least 50,000 seamen with their officers.

There is no probability at present that the naval experts will be in position to get this enormous fleet. But it is the naval idea—the end to which the naval are moving.

Makes Formal Demand

Thinks She Should Be in Peace Deal; Japan Cannot See What Good Would Be Accomplished.

WASHINGTON, July 9.-China's request to be represented in the Washington conference, on the ground that she is vitally interested in its proceedings, has been received by the President and Informally transmitted to the belligerents. Whether the President has received the formal repiles cannot be learned, but it can be stated that, while Russia is inclined to favor the suggestion, Japan will not consent to it.

Japan Isn't Willing. Japan has already made public her assurance that Manchurla is to be restored o China. That is one of the principles for which she says she has been fighting. Japan regards herself as fully capable of executing this promise without the assistance of China, and, in view of China's inability before the war to cope with Russia in Manchuria, the Japanese Government is unable to see what possible service a Chinese representative would be in the Washington conference.

Will Not Press the Claim. Moreover, the Japanese have all along

Moreover, the Japanese have all along taken the position that when peace negotiations were begun they would be conducted directly with Russia. It is altogether unlikely that the Washington Government will press the claim of China, and the official view here fails to sympathize with the idea.

The past week has seen few developments in the plans for the negotiations. Negotiations for an armistice are not expected to be concluded until after the plenipotentiaries meet.

plenipotentiaries meet

Settle Armistice First.

It is pointed out again that the beginning of the rainy season in the war zone removes the necessity for the immediate signing of an armistice. Little doubt is felt, however, that this will be the first subject discussed by the plenipotentiaries and probably their initial act will be the signing of a protocol providing for the cessation of hostilities for a limited period.

Lew Wallace and Lincoln.

Lew Wallace and Lincoln.

The few uneventful years he spent in Covington were distinguished by one important event. It was there that he saw Abraham Lincoln for the first time. The Indiana bar had even then some brillian and notable men among its members, and a case of extraordinary interest had called them together at the fall term of the circuit court. In relating the circumstance, Gen. Wallace said: "During the session we were in the habit of gathering at the old tavern in the evening, after adjournment. It was a brilliant company, whose talk was well worth hearing. One evening there appeared suddenly in our midst a tall, ungainly man, homely of visage, and rather shabbily dressed. He did not intrude himself, but sat on the outskirts of the company, neither proficring opinions nor taking sides in the controversies that, occasionally, became pretty warm. No one seemed to know anything about him, and when I asked a friend who he was he replied, carelessly, 'Oh, that is some third-rate lawyer: a man named Lincoln from somewhere in Illinois,' One evening, however, after he had been there some time," Gen. Wallace continued, "Something moved him to speak, and then he began to talk, We all sat spell-bound.

"I have never," Gen. Wallace said,

"I have never," Gen. Wallace said.
"heard anything that approached it; the logic the wit, the pertinent anecdote that poured out in an unceasing stream. He talked thus for three solid hours. Some one said, "Wheever that fellow is, we shall hear from him again some day." It was my first meeting with Abraham Lincoln." he said, "and the prophecy that we should hear from him again, it must be admitted, was abundantly verified."—Mary H. Krout, in Harper's Weekly.
